No Doubt About It!

GLOWmania is sweeping the country. Everybody's talking about the new national pastime. More exciting than the old wrestling, funnier than sitcoms, wilder than Saturday morning cartoons, and more outrageous than anything else on TV! That's GLOW.

Why are we making such a statement? Well, first of all, GLOW Wrestling is expanding every week, spreading to more and more TV stations around the country (and there are plans now to export GLOW to other countries). There's the upcoming national GLOW Tour, with dates being added all the time as new cities and towns jump on the GLOW bandwagon. And then of course the national media is really taking an interest in the GLOW girls. Mt. Fuji, one of the most popular and recognizable GLOW grapplers, has already appeared on NBC's highly rated prime-time show, "We've Got It Made." Other GLOW wrestlers may have guested on a special episode of the popular daytime show, "Hollywood Squares" by the time you read this. "Good Morning, America" is also scheduled to do a special feature on the GLOW phenomenon and its growing success.

Even national publications consider GLOW a top news item. Why else would Parade and the National Enquirer give GLOW so much ink?

No doubt about it. GLOWmania is sweeping the country. And the reason is simple. There's more action, glamor, excitement, knee-slappers, pretty girls, and fascinating villainesses in one hour of GLOW than you'll find all week in the rest of TVdom. In short, GLOW is fun for the whole family!

I LOVE DEMENTIA

GLOW is my favorite TV show. It is much better than cartoons and Hee Haw and all that other wrestling, and more fun too. I'll bet Hulk Hogan would run if he saw the Heavy Metal Sisters coming at him. But my big favorite of all is Dementia. I really like the way she dresses. Are those combat boots she's wearing? And even though she's always spaced out, she always comes through in the ring when she has to.

Larry Mead
Pasadena CA

MOJO BULL

I am a big fan of GLOW, but I think some of the wrestlers are putting us on. The Princess of Darkness is a little ridiculous if you ask me. I don't believe her mojo bone for one moment. Yes, I believe in the powers of hypnotism, but I just don't think even a professional hypnotist could so quickly put someone under while she's in the wrestling ring. Not with a watch on a chain and certainly not with a bone, whether it's a mojo bone or not. Besides, there ain't no such thing as mojo.

Roberta Egan
Minden LA

A BAD EXAMPLE

I think the Heavy Metal

Sisters should clean up their act, and Dementia too. I don't think my kids should get the idea it's okay to chase people around with chainsaws and axes.

Mrs. R. Bailey
Fort Smith AR

Here at GLOW we assume that parents raise their kids in such a manner that they know right from wrong, fantasy from reality, and TV from real life. Just because Superman jumps off buildings and Crockett & Tubbs shoot guns at people, that doesn't mean kids are going to follow their example. Kids are smarter than you give them credit for. They know that even though GLOW may be their favorite TV show, it's still just a TV show!—Editor

FII COPPED OUT

When Mt. Fiji won the Battle Royale over 17 other girls, she should've gotten her $50,000 prize whether or not the other girls stole the check and tore it. That was a cheap trick. I think GLOW owes Mt. Fiji that money. She won it fair and square because everybody else had been tossed over the ropes and only Mt. Fiji was standing in the ring when it was all over. She won that money, and if I was her, I'd sue GLOW for every last cent, plus punitive damages.

MORE SOUL

My favorite wrestlers are the Soul Patrol, Envy and Adore. I also like Ebony but I don't see her much. Also Headhunter. Is Princess of Darkness black too?

I think GLOW needs more black wrestlers.

ADD OIL AND STIR

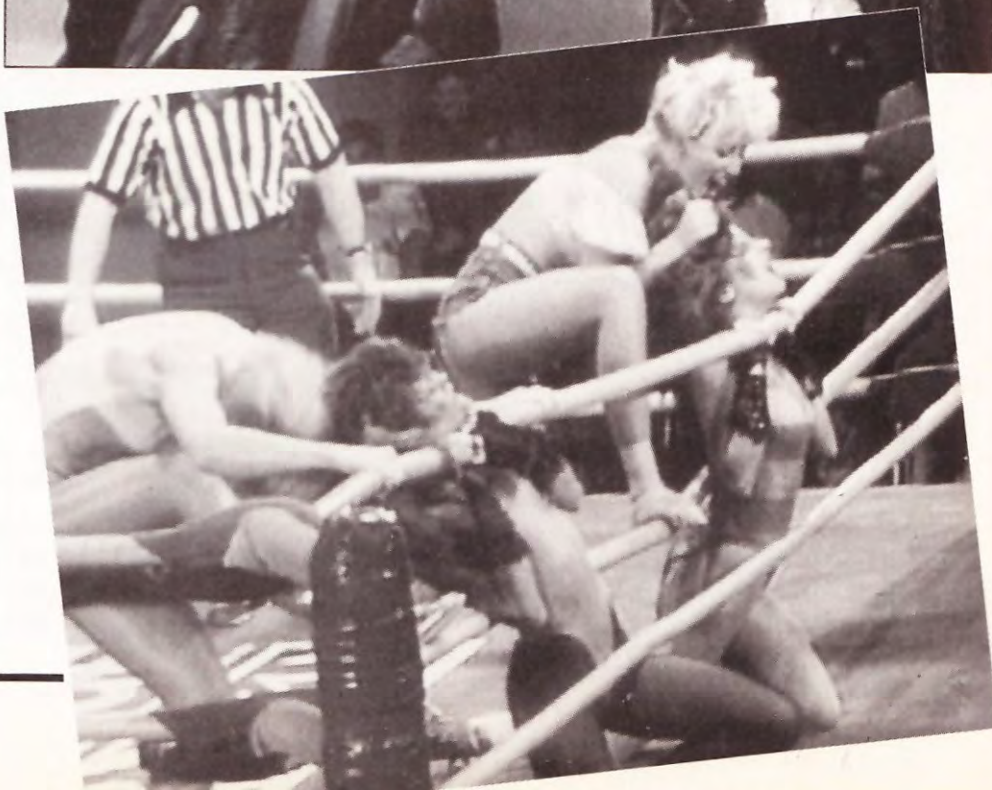

I love to watch all the GLOW girls fight dirty and pull each others' hair and throw each other around. I wish I could wrestle with some of them like Susie Spirit and Debbie Debutante. They'd probably whip me, but I think I'd enjoy being pinned by them. I like to watch women with hard, well-shaped bodies. I like cat fights.

But now and then I think GLOW wrestling would be much more exciting if you oiled them up and had them put grease on their bodies. First of all, their hard bodies would shine and the lights would highlight their fine, feminine muscles. They would also have a hard time getting hold of each other. That would be really exciting. Or maybe you could just have one girl, called Greased Lightning, who'd come out all oily, with sleek muscles and long hair. Please consider my suggestion.

tural. I cannot for the life of me figure out why my family and other men would want to watch such wanton behavior, when there are so many shows with feminine and ladylike women.

I can hardly wait till GLOW gets cancelled.

Evelyn Carr
Prince Georges MD

GLOW'S NUMBER ONE ON TV

GLOW puts all other TV shows to shame. It's not phony like other shows. It's intelligent and exciting. The girls are tough but tender too. I'll bet that when you get Hollywood or Chainsaw alone, they're really fun girls. And I'll bet Spike is a great kisser. I think they are just misunderstood, and if someone took the time to be really nice to them, they'd be the best girlfriends a guy could want.

Elvis Crawford
Roselle IL

UNLADYLIKE BEHAVIOR

I think your television show is disgraceful, and I cannot for the life of me think of why my husband and two boys watch it. I just have to go into the kitchen or go do something else, or else I'll just get in a fight with them. And I don't believe it's right to fight, especially for women. No lady would wrestle in front of people, not if she had any dignity about herself. It's unfeminine and unna-

HOSE 'EM DOWN

I wish that just once Susie Spirit or Mt. Fiji would take those spray paint cans away from Hollywood and Vine and spray them both with paint. That would give them a taste of their own medicine. And while they're at it, they should spray Aunt Kitty too.

PSYCHIATRIC REPORT

She's Whacky, She's Wild, She's Got An Ax To Grind — SHE'S DEMENTIA

BY SCOOP ROBERTS

Aunt Kitty has given us the weirdest wrestlers in the world. But even she admits that her latest "discovery" is her most bizarre. Say hello to Dementia... but don't expect an answer!

It's easy to recognize Dementia. She's the girl in the tattered Victorian dress holding the long ax, who comes in wearing a hockey mask. (Somebody ought to set her up on a date with Jason from the Friday the 13th movies! But then again, she might hurt the poor guy.)

When Dementia takes off her mask, opponents are scared out of their wits by her deathly pale skin and wide-eyed stare. But even more frightening than her looks is the fact that Dementia never says a word. She silently stalks her prey, while the girls she faces scream for their lives. The list of Dementia's victims is as long as her ax handle: Susie Spirit, Tara the Southern Belle, Ashley Cartier and Little Egypt, just to name a few.

A hush falls over the usually excited crowd when Security wheels Dementia down the aisle in her cage. Fans gawk in wonder as the strangest of the GLOW girls waits to be unleashed.

Those of you who were lucky enough to see Dementia's debut in GLOW will remember how she tortured Tara the Southern Belle by locking her up in the cage and teasing her mercilessly. Tara, it turns out, made the mistake of dressing in the same color as the doll Dementia carries with her, and the psychotic girl probably confused the two. After Tara was taken care of, Dementia turned her attention to Little Egypt. Dementia choked Little Egypt and flipped her like a pancake.

Who was guiding this sick girl through her first match? Chainsaw and Spike, the Heavy Metal Sisters, that's who! They seemed to delight in Dementia's mindless destruction. But even they, along with the audience, were a little shocked when Dementia took her doll and planted an ax blade into its back and then showed it gleefully to everyone, like a cat proudly displaying a half-eaten bird, as she held it up like a lollipop on a long stick. After that terrible incident, security guards were called in to restrain Dementia and the Heavy Metal Sisters, but not before Dementia set her dolly's hair on fire with a little help from Spike's blowtorch.

Don't let that bubbly personality (above) fool you. Dementia (left, below) is a cagey maniac who doesn't want to be anybody's pen pal.

“We like swingin’ chicks, but when this crazy chick starts to swing, you’d better get out of her way!”

We asked some of the Gorgeous Ladies Of Wrestling what they thought of this addle-brained addition to their league. Here’s what they said:

★ Ashley Cartier: “There are three words that describe Dementia: sick sick sick! There are four words, I mean: Sick sick sick sick! Did I say five words?”

★ Americana: “They say that Dementia has the mind of a small child, but I don’t remember any children like her when I went to school.”

★ Soul Patrol: “She crazy. She just like all white folks.”

★ Tara the Southern Belle: “Being a lady, I can’t say what I really think of that animal. But I can tell you it’s not nice!”

★ Amy the Farmer’s Daughter: “Dementia reminds me of someone back on my daddy’s farm—the scarecrow!”

★ Heavy Metal Sisters: “She’s a brainless idiot. We think of her as family.”

★ Debbie Debutante: “I have always told people I’m a blue-blood. But Dementia wants to see for herself!”

“Come along and be my take-apart-ee doll,” Dementia sings to herself (left), but no one can hear her. Sometimes she just likes to hang out (above).

DEMENTIA

"Dementia's not one for deep philosophical arguments, but she does like to split hairs!!"

As usual, Security has to be called in to carry Dementia out of the ring area (left).

PERSONAL HISTORY

We decided to peek into Dementia's personal history for the purpose of this report. Maybe we'd find out why she's nuts. Visiting her home town of Salem, Massachusetts, we found documents in the town hall saying that Dementia, born on a Friday the 13th, was orphaned when her parents were mysteriously attacked by someone with an ax. No suspect was ever found, though one witness wondered if Dementia was desperately trying to go to the Annual Orphans' Picnic. After a year in the Lizzie Borden Home For Orphans in Fall River, Dementia ran away to live with the wild animals in the woods. A week later, the animals brought her back and demanded that from then on, Dementia be kept on a leash.

Dementia stayed there, earning her living by chopping firewood (and anything else that she could get her hands on). That was where Aunt Kitty found her. Aunt Kitty knew that Dementia's raw, natural strength and her weak mind added up to just what she wanted in a wrestler. When we asked Aunt Kitty how she managed to keep Dementia under control, she said that Dementia listens to her because she has become like a second mother to this crazy, quiet girl in the hockey mask.

Somebody better tell Aunt Kitty what happened to Dementia's first mother!

BY SCOOP ROBERTS

They say they're the baddest, blackest, butt-kickin'est wrestling tag team in GLOW. They are Envy and Adore, the Soul Patrol. We caught up with the leather'n'lace sisters on their home turf in Cabrini Green, Chicago, after discovering their whereabouts on a police band radio.

"We're Envy and Adore, don't take no sass, when we meet the competition, we kick 'em in the knees."

SOUL PATROL

ADORE: Hey, suckuh! I'm surprised you made it here in one piece!

GLOW: I'm surprised too! This neighborhood really stinks.

ENVY: Welcome to the ghet-to! Sides, you gotta walk through the test to talk with the best.

GLOW: What makes you say you're the best?

ADORE: You gonna say we're not the best? Huh?

GLOW: I only meant...

ENVY: Yo, turkey! Wanna sink your teeth into a hard knuckle sandwich?

GLOW: Take it easy. It was just a question.

ADORE: Alright, whitey. You wanna know why we be the best? I'll tell you why. 'Cause we never lost a fair fight yet.

GLOW: You haven't fought a fair fight yet.

ENVY: Looky here, dude. You must be tryin' to test your hospital insurance.

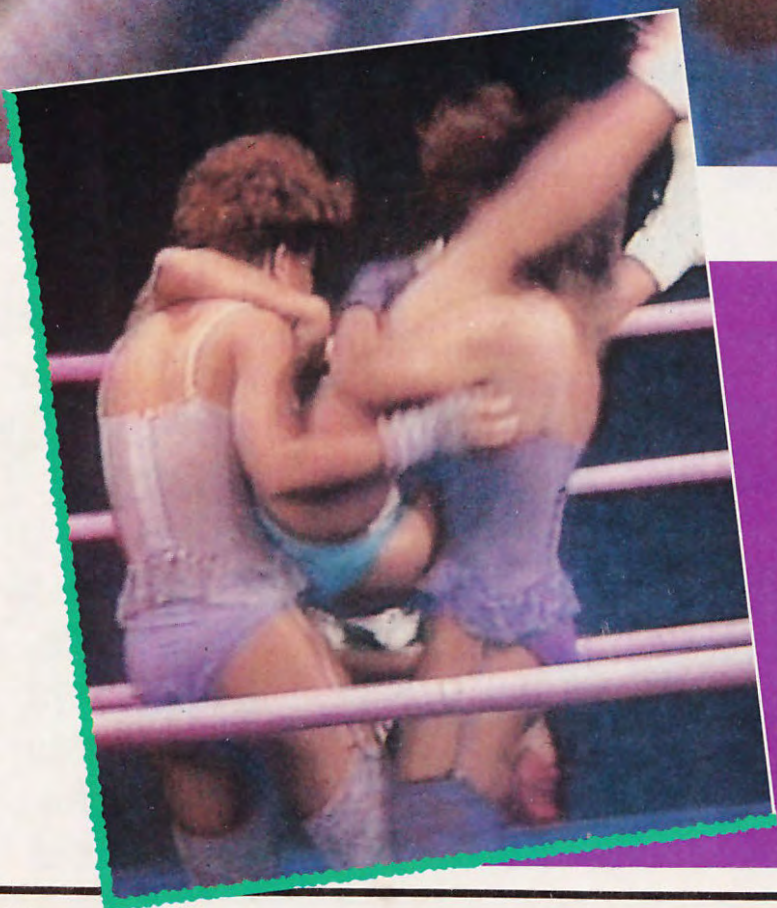

GLOW: Okay, let's get back to wrestling. You two say you're the best.

ADORE: And we are! We beat everyone from the cheerleaders to Tina and Ashley. We beat everybody that was stupid enough to get in the ring against us!

ENVY: Right on, girl! R.O.R.O. (She gives Adore a High-5)

GLOW: Your opponents complain that you cheat

"We'll honk your car horn at you all we want, 'cause we are the honkers and you are the honkee!"

Fighting street dirty, the Soul Patrol duo gang up on an unsuspecting opponent (left, above) and bounce her butt around the ring.

by using those Chinese nun-chuks in the ring.

ADORE: Awww! Ain't it too bad! The little crybabies ain't happy with how we be wrestlin'. Well, I'll tell you, when you're fightin', ain't but one rule. Win!

ENVY: Hallelujah! You tell it just like it is, sister Adore!

ADORE: And that's one rule we never forget! Dig?

GLOW: How'd you hook up with Aunt Kitty?

ENVY: She caught our act one night when these six dudes made the mistake of jumpin' us. Kitty took us for a ride in her car to talk things over.

GLOW: That's not what the police report says.

ENVY: Police report? What you talkin' about, boy?

GLOW: According to it, you were caught in the act. You were stealing Aunt Kitty's car!

ADORE: You lie like a rug!

'Sides, Aunt Kitty never pressed charges. Not after she saw our natch'l ability and signed us up on the spot! On the spot!

GLOW: Getting back to those nun-chuks. . . .

ENVY: Hey, man! Whatta you hasslin' us for? We only be bringin' an extra 10 ounces of wood into the ring, but that Mt. Fiji be comin' in with 'bout 200 extra pounds of fat!

ADORE: That's tellin' the man, honey! Yes, ma'm! (Adore gives Envy a High-5)

ENVY: Look, man, you wanna know the truth? The truth be that most girls in GLOW is just white trash.

ADORE: Yeah, and Envy here and me are just throwin' the trash out!

ENVY: Yeah, girl! That's it!

ADORE: 'Sides, the white chicks can't compare to us in wrestlin' or in looks. The fact is, they don't belong in the same ring with us.

GLOW: Speaking about rings, have either of you two ever gotten serious about a man?

ADORE: I'm glad you axed. The truth be that we're too much woman for any two men to handle on a double date.

GLOW: Do you bring along your nun-chuks?

ENVY: Why not? Ain't you never heard of "accessories" before? Anyway, a girl don't want a guy to take advantage of her.

GLOW: Your opponents say you take advantage of them in the ring.

ADORE: Listen, suckuh. We only take advantage of opportunity, that's all.

GLOW: Can you give an example of opportunity?

ENVY: Let's say you be walkin' down the street, and you see this wallet layin' on the sidewalk. You bend down, pick it up, and take advantage of the opportunity.

GLOW: What if the wallet is still in somebody's pocket?

ADORE: Sometimes, you gotta make your opportunities happen, Jack! (She gives Envy another High-5)

SOUL PATROL

GLOW: I hate to ask this question but do you have any advice for our young fans out there?

ENVY: Sure. Say no to drugs and keep yo' butt in school.

GLOW: Hey! That is some good advice.

ADORE: Don't be lookin' at us so surprised, fool!

GLOW: I thought you two hated school.

ENVY: Whatchyou talkin' 'bout? We went to a real exclusive school.

ADORE: Yeah. You had to get a recommendation from a judge! Ha ha!

GLOW: Okay, now do you have any advice for your opponents?

ENVY: Stay outta our way!

ADORE: Say it loud, sister Envy. Say it loud!

ENVY: And you'd best be gettin' outta our way too. We gotta go make a withdrawal from the bank.

GLOW: But the banks aren't open now.

ADORE: That never stopped us before. By the way, thanks for the car, fool! You real generous.

GLOW: Hey, come back with that car! How am I supposed to get home?

ENVY: Why don't you call up your mama and see if she'll pick you up?

ENVY & ADORE: Ha, ha, ha!

"Get out of our way. We have to go make a withdrawal from the bank—before it opens!"

Tag Team Match:

THE SHOWGIRLS VS.
HOLLYWOOD & VINE

THE WORST OF GLOW!

It was probably the most disgraceful thing we've ever witnessed since GLOW has been on the air. When a tag team scheduled to wrestle Hollywood & Vine had to bow out at the last minute, two replacements showed up claiming to be showgirls from the Riviera Hotel, where GLOW's matches are videotaped.

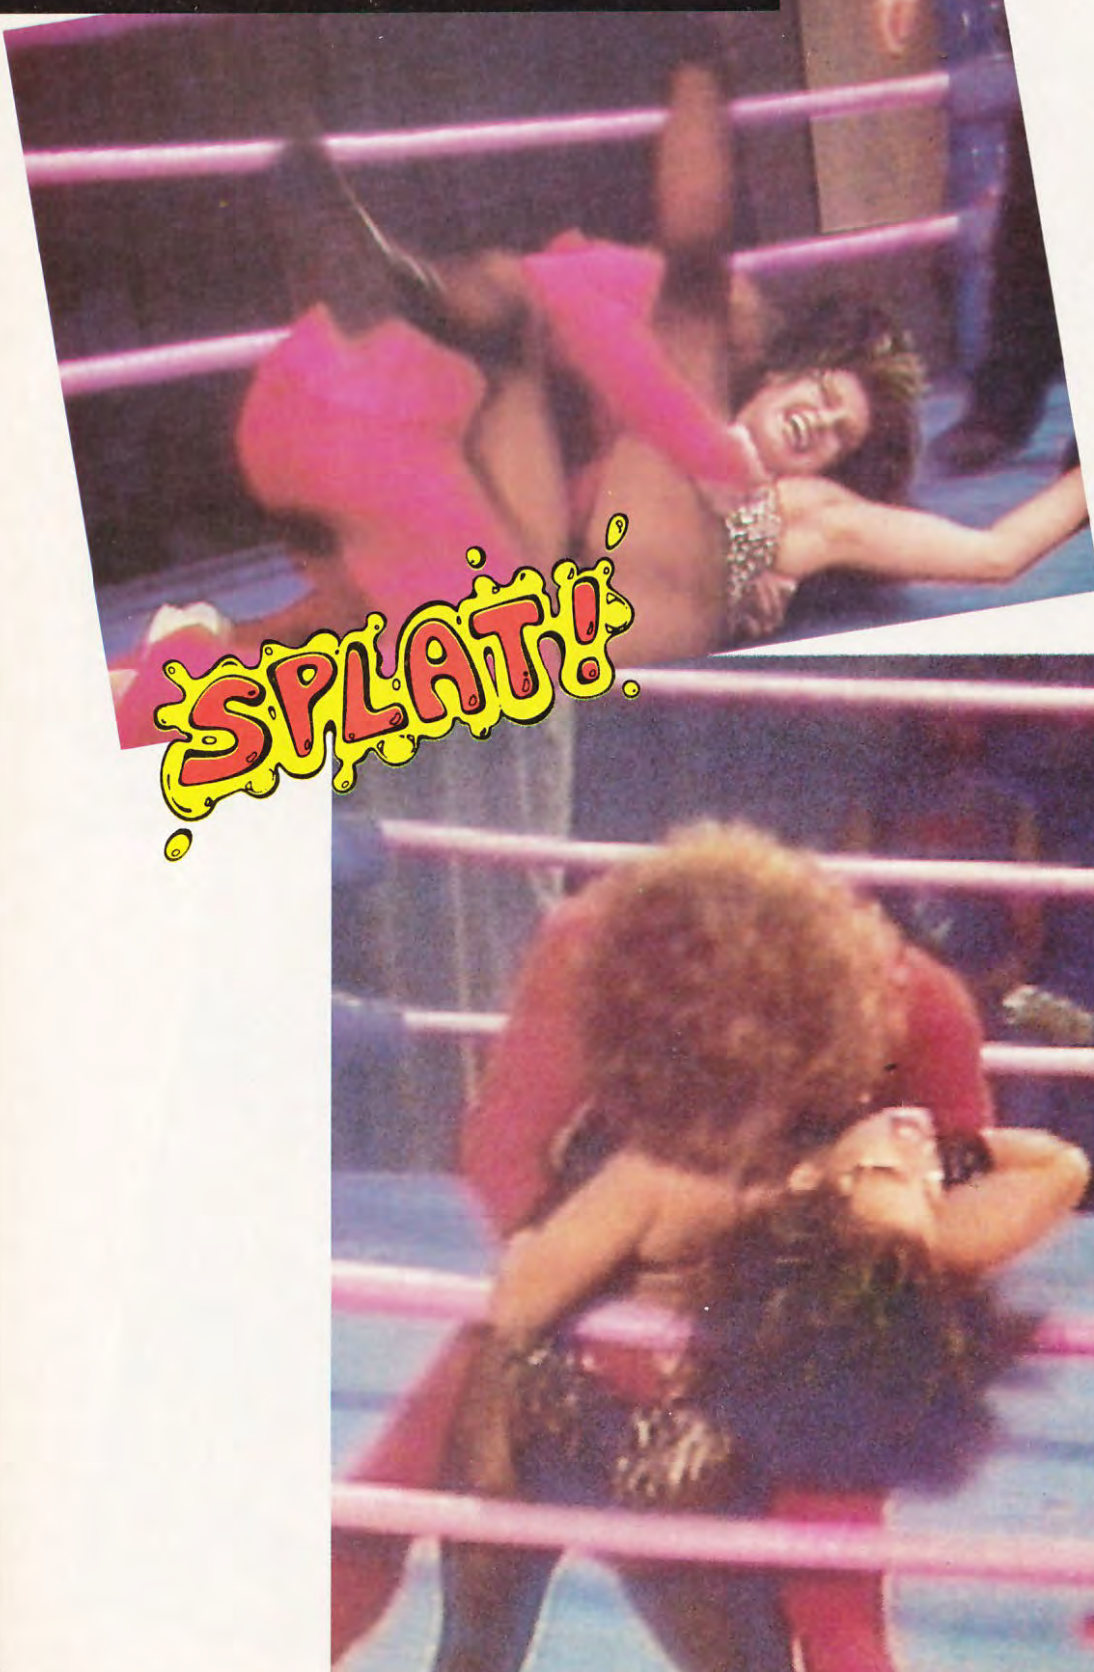

Dressed in bright red finery commonly seen on the stages of Vegas showrooms, the Showgirls (as they billed themselves) pranced out of the wings, and with the precision moves of practiced dancers, high-stepped their way into the ring to face their hoodlum opponents. It looked to be a good fight.

ZAP!

THE SHOWGIRLS vs HOLLYWOOD & VINE

But right away something was terribly amiss. The Showgirls seemed to have a new maneuver that onlookers and the play-by-play announcers, Sir Miles Headlock and Susie Spirit, had never seen before. It looked as if . . . can we say this . . . the Showgirls were trying to give Hollywood and Vine a hickey. Of course, we've heard about that type of women, but c'mon, this is GLOW—whole-some family entertainment!

A few other things weren't quite right either. These Showgirls were so tall and muscular, and their shoulders were so wide. Vegas showgirls are supposed to be tall and leggy, but the only place you usually see shoulders like these Showgirls had is along the highway.

CRUNCH!

Bambi...or is it Bambette...gives Vine a hickey (left), and we're not gonna guess what the two of them are doing to Vine
(above). Poor Hollywood, she's getting a bird's eye

THE SHOWGIRLS vs HOLLYWOOD & VINE

Suddenly, our street urchins solved the mystery and unveiled these frauds for what they really were. To the shock of everyone in the audience, Hollywood and Vine yanked wigs off the Showgirls' heads. They weren't girls at all! What a couple of sneaks! They were guys underneath!

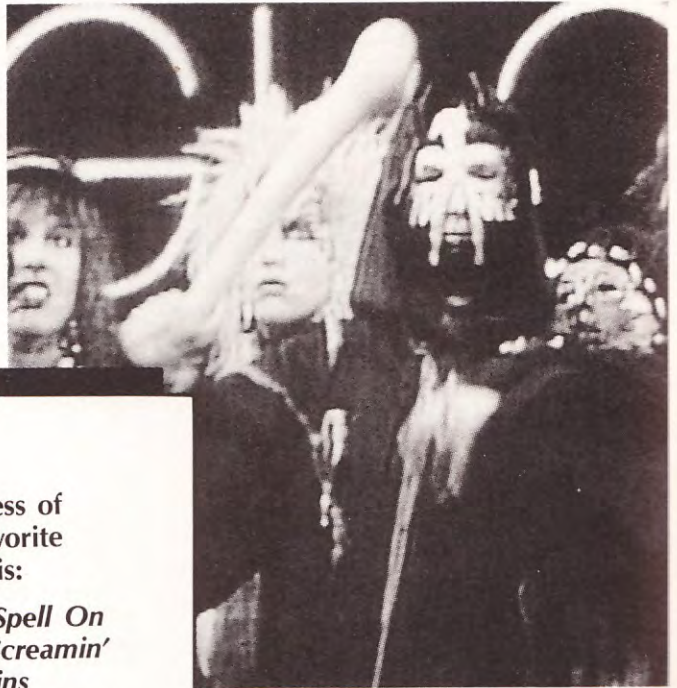

"We just wanted to get close to our favorite wrestlers," they confessed to the disgusted crowd, before being booed from the ring. "We're just two guys looking for a little action!"

Well there's plenty of action in Las Vegas, and nobody has to climb into the ring to find it. Hollywood and Vine claimed they were grossed out by the whole affair. But they didn't do so bad when the bogus match was over. They did manage to snatch and get away with about $2,000 worth of the Showgirls' jewelry.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Spectacular GLOW Tour!

Those Beautiful &
Dangerous
GLOW Girls
Are Headin'
Your Way

The long-awaited national GLOW Tour will kick off its cross-country extravaganza in January 1988, bringing the best of women's wrestling to your home town—live and in person! That's the latest word from Sy Samuels, Exec VP of INI and GLOW Touring, Inc. According to Samuels, the tour's card will feature a Superstar Challenge and the largest "Battle Royale" ever in the history of women's wrestling. Twenty-six (26!) of GLOW's amazing grapplin' gals will enter the ring at the same time for a no-holds-barred fight to the finish, until only one woman is left standing. Who will be crowned Best of the Best, Queen of the Ring? Come see the GLOW girls in action and find out!

Featured on the tour will be the evil Ninotchka (tell your local authorities to keep an eye on her and not let her get close to any military installations); Mt. Fiji and Little Fiji; awesome tag team duo Hollywood and Vine; the Farmer's Daughters; those feared Heavy Metal Sisters, Spike and Chainsaw; the ever-peppy Cheerleaders, Susie Spirit and Debbie Debutante; Dementia and her ax; those darlings of the South, Tara and Magnolia, the Southern Belles; and two new wrestlers, Beastie and the Nerd.

For more information about this spectacular national tour, write to GLOW "Live," 6121 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood CA 90038, or call (213) 461-5400.

Don't be fooled by cheap imitations! Watch your favorite GLOW television station for updates on the first-ever national GLOW Tour that'll bring the Gorgeous Ladies Of Wrestling into your home town or area!

For further coverage on the girls of GLOW, look for upcoming issues of the National Enquirer and Parade Magazine. Plus, there's a good chance you'll be seeing some of the girls on "Hollywood Squares," "Good Morning, America" and "Two On The Town" (in Los Angeles). And you Mt. Fiji fans won't want to miss her special appearance on NBC's prime-time comedy, "We've Got It Made." You see, GLOW is becoming a national pastime and an American phenomenon! Everybody's talking about those fabulous babes who battle in the GLOW ring!

ON-THE-SCENE REPORT...

Want to make your next party a truly unforgettable occasion? Then take a few helpful tips from the HEAVY METAL SISTERS, SPIKE AND CHAINSAW, as they discuss The Do's and Don'ts of Partying! with reporter DAWNA KAUFMANN.

"WE CAME TO PARTY.. AND DESTROY!"

Spike & Chainsaw's Do's & Don'ts Of Party Crashing

BY DAWNA KAUFMANN

It was well after midnight when I ran into the 7-11 for emergency provisions. I had been home whipping up snacks for the Tupperware party I was giving that evening. But there was no way I could continue making my tasty green olive-blueberry-chocolate logs without a cup each of bean curd and lard, so dash I did.

I parked my car and walked toward the store, where I was accosted by a pair of glittery guttersnipes who hit me up for spare change and tried to get me to buy them beer.

Of course, being a fan of GLOW, I recognized the girls as Spike and Chainsaw, the Heavy Metal Sisters, the notorious tag team that's giving new meaning to the term "head bangers." Many times I'd witnessed their brutal, maniacal actions in the ring, and I'd long heard of their wild and weirdo off-duty antics, yet I sensed there was much I could learn from these two. Maybe even something that might come in handy for my party.

Just looking at them up close was an experience: twin banshees, leather- and spandex-clad, with rat nests for hair, long tongues flicking lasciviously, and beady eyes floating free form in their thoughts of apparent bloodlust. Spike, with her blonde and blue hair standing on end, was cuddling her ever-present blowtorch, and Chainsaw, with her raven tresses, menacingly manhandled a Black-and-Decker like a mascara version of Leatherface.

The mere mention of my soiree caught their attention like mosquitoes to a nudist colony, so it was easy to convince them to give me an interview in exchange for invitations. I sprung for Slurpees, and we piled into my station wagon where the following conversation took place.

DAWNA: Well girls, as I mentioned, I'm throwing a little wingding and thought you might give me some advice.

SPIKE: Sure. Get a nose job!

DAWNA: I meant about parties! You know, how to be a good hostess, how to be a good guest, how to...

CHAINSAW: Yeah, yeah, yeah. Well, you asked the right people. We go to a lot of parties!

SPIKE: Yeah, some of 'em we've even been invited to!

CHAINSAW: Hey, Spike,

remember Americana's Texas-style Cookout?

SPIKE: Ha ha ha! You mean the Texas Cookout Massacre? When I barbecued a side of beef with my blowtorch? That was really great!

CHAINSAW: But we didn't care for her friends.

SPIKE: Didn't care for them at all.

CHAINSAW: So we simply smoked 'em out. Ha ha!

DAWNA: What are you two talking about?

SPIKE: We poured transmission fluid on the briquettes! Talk about lung pollution!

CHAINSAW: Lucky for us we're used to rotten air from all of our nightclub experience...

SPIKE: But those wimps went running! So we grabbed the food. Ha Ha Ha!

CHAINSAW: Once Cartier had this surprise birthday party, and we hired a stripper.

SPIKE: Right! He came in and stripped all her furniture!

BOTH: Sur-prise! Ha Ha Ha!

SPIKE: You know the best thing to do when someone's having a surprise party?

DAWNA: No, what?

SPIKE: Tell 'im about it in advance! Ha Ha Ha! Why should he have all the fun? He's getting presents, right? That's enough!

CHAINSAW: Hey! Talking about birthday gifts, whenever I go to a party and I'm forced to give a gift, I make sure to even up the score.

Chainsaw's the brunette, the one who's got Cleaver Fever, the conservative one. Spike's the charming one, known to her close pals as a bleach bunnie whose favorite perfume is Clorox. The only thing that can stop these two is penicillin.

DAWNA: How?

CHAINSAW: By helping myself to something of equal or better value. Sort of a swap.

SPIKE: Just a little souvenir.

CHAINSAW: And I always make a point of cruising by the bedroom at least a coupla times.

DAWNA: Why is that?

CHAINSAW: To snoop through all the coats and purses on the bed! [They both cackle]

DAWNA: Forget about that. Let's say you're invited to my party. . .

SPIKE: Which we are! Definitely!

DAWNA: Which you are, right. Let's project how the evening might go. Imagine—you pull up to my house. . .

CHAINSAW: Wait a minute! Where's the address? I can't see an address!

SPIKE: Aarrggghhh!!! That makes me sick when people don't have their address showing! I'll just have to blowtorch the numbers real big on the garage door so nobody gets lost. [They cackle]

DAWNA: Okay, at the door someone asks for your invitation.

CHAINSAW: Invitation? Invitation! This chainsaw is my invitation! [Chainsaw buzzes]

DAWNA: Sorry, nobody gets in without an invitation. (Hold up card) See? It looks like this, "Potluck" and "BYOB" printed on the bottom.

SPIKE: BYOB? Bring your own Battering Ram! No problemo! C'mon, Chainsaw!

DAWNA: Awright,

awright, you can come in! Now, inside you see a half-dozen dignified ladies gathered together for a Tupperware display. Do you know what Tupperware is?

CHAINSAW: Yeah, sure! [She lets out a burp]

SPIKE: [Screaming with laughter] Now, pull her finger!

DAWNA: Back to the party, pah-leeze! I want to be sure I've thought of all the important considerations. . . music, refreshments, ambience.

CHAINSAW: Music! You need lots of music! Heavy Metal, grinding! Turn up

"We poured transmission fluid on the barbecue briquettes! Wow! Talk about lung pollution!"

"Something's wrong with my neck," Spike complains to Dr. Grope (above). "Yeah, it's attached to your head," he replies. Chainsaw (below) asks him how he'd like a split personality. Opposite: the girls relax at home.

your stereo to the max, then rip off the knob!

DAWNA: What about the food? I want to make sure there's enough, even if it is potluck. By the way, what did you bring?

SPIKE: Us? Bring? Whattaya—

CHAINSAW: Hey! We have cookies! Remember?

SPIKE: Yeah, that's right. Cookies, we brought. Baked 'em ourselves, too, didn't we?

CHAINSAW: Right! Yum, brown, round cookies! With our special icing!

DAWNA: Mmmmm!

SPIKE: Made of bacon grease!

DAWNA: Yecch!

CHAINSAW: Hey, don't worry about not having enough food. We'll make sure there's plenty!

SPIKE: Yeah, we'll sneeze on the most popular dishes...

CHAINSAW: And drool all over the others!

SPIKE: Then we'll drop a few flies in the ice tray.

CHAINSAW: And barf right in the bean dip!

SPIKE: No one'll know the difference, lady! [They both cackle]

DAWNA: Let's just talk about my party, okay? Am I missing anything?

SPIKE: Yeah, two important things. Men and booze!

CHAINSAW: We'll call some of our pals. Our best biker buddies!

SPIKE: Only just a few—a few hundred! Ha Ha Ha!

CHAINSAW: Then we'll get this party of yours off the ground...

SPIKE: ...and out there onto the dance floor!

DAWNA: Suppose they don't want to dance?

SPIKE: We douse 'em with itching powder. We absolutely hate wallflowers!

CHAINSAW: And then, when everybody's drunk tons of beer, we go and lock ourselves in the bathroom.

SPIKE: Pretty soon there's a line outside the door a block long! Ha Ha Ha!

CHAINSAW: But a lot we care! Cuz we've already climbed out the window! [They both cackle]

SPIKE: Next, we head down to the basement and find the fusebox. We switch the electrical power off...

CHAINSAW: And spot-weld the box shut!

DAWNA: Stop it! Stop it! I can't take anymore! Is that how you two behave at parties? Like barbarians?!

SPIKE: We didn't even get around to the stink bombs and tar buckets!

DAWNA: Just forget it. I've changed my mind.

CHAINSAW: About what?

DAWNA: There's not going to be a party!

BOTH: Oh yeah????!! Wanna bet? [Sounds of buzz saw and blowtorch, with crazy cackles and screams]

“We hired a stripper for Ashley Cartier’s party. He came and stripped all her furniture!”

GLOWLINES

GLOW Insider Dawna Kaufmann Puts Her Ear To The Mat And Comes Up With Lots Of Punchy, Low-Down Gossip!

ASHLEY CARTIER

spent the summer doing her fave activity: spending! (What else?) The city of Beverly Hills is still reeling from excitement as the "Gold Card Girl" charged from boutique to boutique. Though Ashley gushed, "I only bought the bare essentials," we have to wonder. An electric dog polisher? Fur-lined jacuzzi? Chocolate-covered emeralds? Oh well, besides being glamorous, Ashley's a fabulous wrestler, so it's only fair that she's

Down-n'-DIRTY

VACATION
NOTES FROM

BY

pampered. We asked Ashley if there's any truth to the story ROYAL HAWAIIAN's been spreading. Namely, that Ashley had a whole 'nuther reason for going home to Beverly Hills... plastic surgery! "Absolutely not!" she gasped. "You have to remember Royal Hawaiian's a notorious liar. Know how you can tell? Just watch her lips. If they're moving, she's lying!" But Royal Hawaiian countered with a hiss. "I know she had plastic surgery and I can prove it—I've got pictures! Really, I don't know why she denies it. It's no big deal. She doesn't look any different than she did $3000 ago!" MEOOWWW! We'll be waiting to see what develops with those pictures!

While Ashley enjoyed a shopping spree down Rodeo Drive, naughty HOLLYWOOD and VINE went on a shoplifting spree down their main drag... Skid Drive. Sez Hollywood, "Ashley makes me sick. She thinks she's so great. The only reason she's richer than us is cuz she's got money!" Being basically a pair of street urchins, the bad girls are always comfortable in crowds. "More pockets to pick!" cackles Vine. Keep your eyes on their hands!

TARA & DEBBIE

DEBUTANTE drove across country together, and their sightseeing included visits to both girls' hometowns. Tara, a Southern belle ("...and not a 'ding dong' like the HEADHUNTERS accuse!" she sniffs) is from Savannah, Georgia, so they went to her family's plantation for a high-society ball. Mint juleps and that famous Southern hospitality overflowed and a good time was had by all, as guests jostled their way through the masses to request dances with the dazzling damsels. (Is it true that a certain Mr. Turner's planning to star Tara in a new TV project—a sitcom version of the classic film, to be called Went With The Wind? Just askin'!)

The fun continued as Debbie and Tara embarked on the second leg of their summer adventure. Heading west, with Tara at the wheel, they took a wrong turn and ended up in South Dakota. But ever cheerful, the GLOW gals used the occasion to visit Mount Rushmore, which impressed Debbie to no end—she thinks it's a natural rock formation! At last, they arrived out West and wasted no time in hitting the beach at Palos Verdes. They were an instant hit with the lifeguards and other beautiful people there, but when Tara's oh-so-sensitive skin started to burn, they left the sand 'n' surf. The experience inspired the two beauties to consider a joint business venture that would make both girls happy and, possibly, very rich—solar-powered tanning parlors!

Ashley (above) yells "Ahhhh"—or is that "Argghhhh"? Meanwhile, Aunt Kitty supervises Dementia's entrance to the ring (below).

DEMENTIA had a little not-quite-so-unexpected thrill recently at a reunion at her alma mater, the Lizzie Borden Home for Orphans. Five murder-minded imps joined in an ambush against her, but like a true pro, she came out swinging and wiped out her puny competition in no time.

SHE'S GOT AN AX TO GRIND

TALK ABOUT "HOT" IDEAS!

GLOWLINES

GOOD TO THE LAST DROP

A young recruit asked Corporal Kelly how many successful jumps a paratrooper must make before she's ready for combat. The corporal's answer: "All of 'em!" Makes sense to us.

Poor Mt. Fiji gets an unwelcome look at the ceiling (above), and poor Tara (right) feels also unwelcome locked in Dementia's cage.

WHAM, BAM, THANK YOU, MA'AM

We ran into JUNGLE WOMAN the other day and asked why she keeps NATURE BOY on a leash. "All men are beasts!" she said, adding that she's an 'animal lover.' I believe her!

MT. FIJI flew over to her native South Pacific Isles, where she's considered a national treasure. There were parties, parades, and even a celebration where an active volcano was dedicated to her. We've seen snapshots and they're something else. When Mt. Fiji is standing in front of a volcano, you can't see the volcano! Meanwhile, LITTLE FIJI may be wanted by The Godfather! The pretty Polynesian, who accompanied her big sister back home, isn't talking, but we heard from a little tropical bird that exotic gifts and bouquets of flowers have been arriving for her, with mushy cards mysteriously signed by "MARLON B." Well, Mr. Brando, or whoever you are, we give you fair warning: You may be Superman's dad, but the Man Of Steel don't mean diddlydoo if you incur the wrath of Mt. Fiji. She's very protective of her young sis, so take it easy, dude!

NINOTCHKA

couldn't decide where to go on her summer vacation. Cuba sounded inviting, yet so did Lebanon. So where did she end up? Try Afghanistan! She had, in her words, "a vonderful time, dahlink!" But the sultry Soviette didn't appreciate the alleged harassment she received from Customs agents upon her return to the U.S. She claims they looked at her passport picture and declared that she was even uglier in person! Good Glasnost!

While the Heavy Metal Sisters (above) recorded an album (of grinding, gnashing teeth), Ninotchka (left) sang "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," even though her favorite group is Simply Red.

The HEAVY METAL SISTERS just got out of the recording studio where they attempted to cut an album. CHAINSAW likes chamber music... torture chamber music, of course—while SPIKE prefers "torch" songs... See ya next issue!

HOLLYWOOD'S

HOOBIE-GAN

HAMMERLOCK

"When I get my arm around their necks, I really got them chicks where I want 'em!" says Hollywood's most hellish namesake, Hollywood. "I can put 'em to sleep—bye bye—if I feel like it, and most times I really feel like it!"

The cute klepto claims her clever clutch-hold clob-bers contestants, though she won't clarify how the clasp clinches her matches.

But wrestlers who have been victimized by Hollywood's Hooligan Hammerlock say she applies pressure with her forearm against the carotid artery and blocks the flow of blood to the brain, which leads to dizziness and even unconsciousness. Susie Spirit thinks manager Aunt Kitty taught the clamp hold to Hollywood, but Ashley Cartier, who suffered the hammerlock in a match with Hollywood, believes simply that "she stole it, just like she steals everything else!"

When we asked for a detailed demonstration of her Hooligan Hammerlock, the rowdy reprobate just gave us one of her mean street-kid looks. Then she stuck out her tongue and swaggered off. We quickly made a check of all our valuables to see if anything was missing, but apparently she left empty-handed.

Is there a way to fend off the hated hammerlock? According to

Tara loves to wear chokers, but she's not gonna like this one.

Tara the Southern Belle, "You can escape from it, but you have to be quick and do it while your mind is still clear. Even six or seven seconds in that hold can slow down your thoughts, because you have to get oxygen back into your brain, and in the time it takes to clear your head, Hollywood can be all over your bod like a cheap dress."

The trick, says Tara, is to use Hollywood's hold on you to your advantage. "You're in a position where you can actually pick her up and slam her against the turn buckle, and that usually makes her let up. Or you can sucker punch her in the kidneys. I normally wouldn't think of fighting in such an unladylike fashion myself, but other girls do. I'm sorry to say this, but when you're fighting someone as mean and nasty as Hollywood, you can't always stay completely within the rules as set down by the GLOW manual."

Then again, the GLOW rulebook does not include anything as dirty as Hollywood's hated Hooligan Hammerlock! ★

ONE-ON-ONE

COMPILED BY DAWNA KAUFMANN

"One-on-One" is your chance to communicate directly with your favorite GLOW wrestlers. Write a letter to the GLOW star of your choice and mail it to GLOW Magazine, 6565 Sunset Boulevard, Suite 520, Hollywood CA 90028. We'll print the best fan letters in each issue—along with each GLOW girl's response!

ANGEL

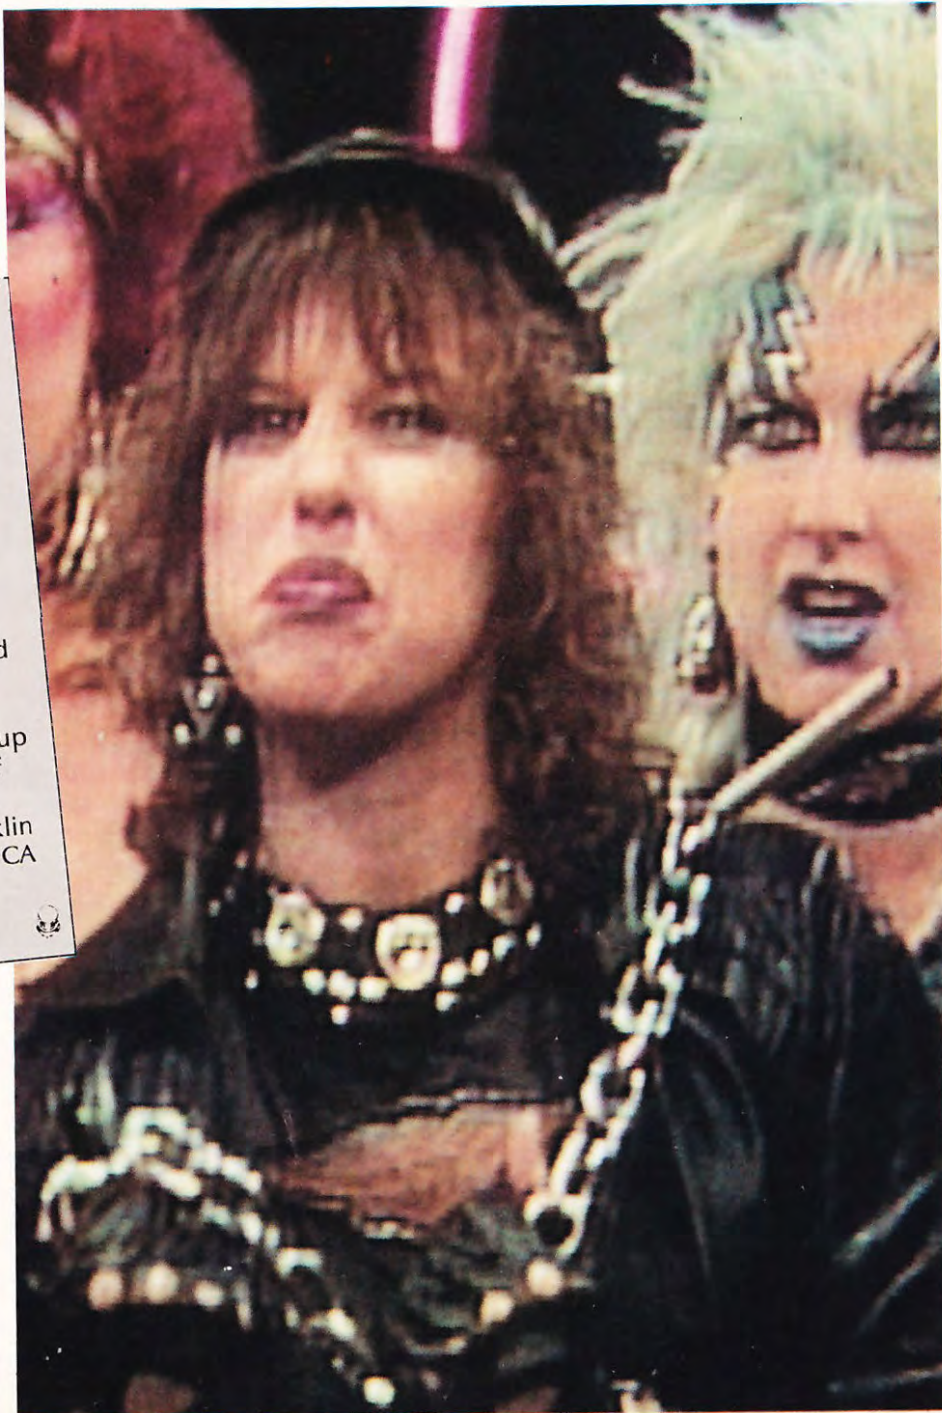

Yo, Angel!

I got me a plan for making big dough, and if you're nice to me, I'll cut you in. We'll be partners, see? Here's the deal: I happen to have access to a large supply of freshly printed license plates. Now all I need is a few hot cars, and that's where you come in! It's very simple: Swipe, switch, sell and ditch. I figure we can pull a coupla jobs a month without catchin' any heat or messin' up your GLOW gig. Just think of the cash, girl! Whattayasay?

Lefty Franklin
Vacaville CA

Yo, Lefty!

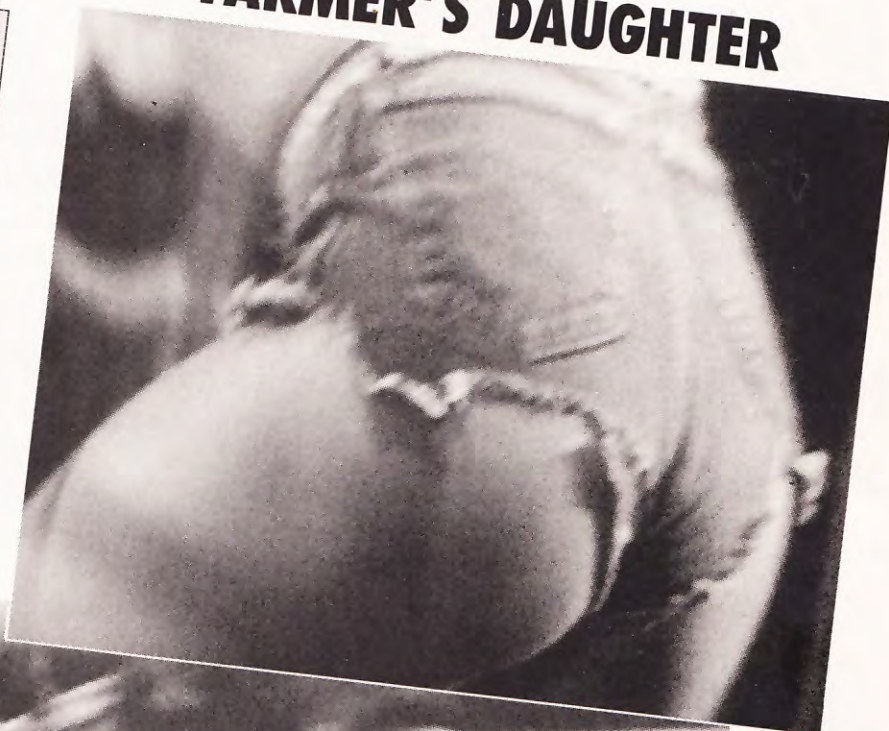

It's a good thing you're not here right now, or I'd break your face! You got some nerve trying to tempt me into crime. I got convictions, you know. Just ask my parole officer. Since I joined GLOW, I've been riding the straight and narrow (not counting wanton violence in the ring), and it's gonna stay that way. So bug off, idiot!

FARMER'S DAUGHTER

Dear Farmer's Daughter,
Now that you've moved from Nebraska to Nevada, how have things changed for you? Do you like life in the big city? Or do you miss the farm? Also, what do you hear from your sister Sally? Will she be coming back to GLOW soon? I surely hope so, cuz I never get bored looking at you beautiful Farmer's Daughters.

Lester Whippowill
Gary IN

Dear Lester,
You better believe Las Vegas is a heap different for me than Hog Hollow. For one thing, folks don't seem to sleep much here. They go-go-go till the cows come home. Then they keep on goin' till the cows go back out again. And the funny thing is, with all them cows comin' and goin',

I've yet to see a one of 'em! Ain't even seen no chips, neither. Now, I will admit the bright lights and all that money flashin' can really turn a gal's head around. But compared to a moonlit hayride or seein' a new foal, it don't mean much. As for Sally, don't be expectin' her back too soon. She met a young fiddle player named Zeke at a square dance, and they've been step-pin' out together. But don't forget about my little sister, Babe. She's never been off the farm before, but she's fattenin' up her prize hog so she can come visit me and join GLOW. So keep your eyes open for more news shortly, Lester, and thank you kindly for your support.

ONE-ON-ONE

HOLLYWOOD & VINE

Dear Hollywood & Vine,
I watch GLOW every week and thought I'd seen every dirty trick in the book, but your recent match against Bambi and Babette, the Showgirls, was an all-time low. The surprising thing is that for once you guys were on the receiving end of a practical joke. When the Showgirls lost their wigs and were revealed as men, I couldn't believe my eyes. How could that happen? Don't you have physicals? Or locker rooms? What gives?
Melissa Payne
Lake Forest IL

From Hollywood:

Lighten up, sis! Bambi and Babette were last minute replacements, so that's how they slipped by Security. Anyway, fighting the Showgirls wasn't really our worst experience in the ring. After all, they did teach us how to dance. It was freaky when they kept tickling us, and Vine still has a hickey on her neck, but mostly it was a lot of fun.

Vine adds:

Yeah, I agree. I mean, even if the Showgirls are males, they don't exactly qualify as real men. We're a lot tougher and rougher. And we'd be glad to take 'em on again any time.

NINOTCHKA

Ninotchka You Commie!
I've had enough of your rabid anti-American behavior.
In my opinion, you're just a no-good commie coward. If life's so bad here in the U.S., why don't you just hightail it back to Russia? We don't need you hanging around military bases trying to corrupt our boys. I don't understand why we don't just have you deported. I'm gonna write Congress and the President!

Trudy Weinstock
Baltimore MD

Dear Trudy,

*Hoo Boy! I am so frightened.
I'm shaking in my krasnaya boots! As long as your stupid, ridiculous leaders are more interested in being seen on TV than in stopping KGB, I will be safe. Besides, haven't you heard of Glasnost? You should be grateful for this chance of cultural exchange. I give you culture and in exchange, you give me maps of submarine installations. HA HA HA!*

ONE-ON-ONE

DR. GROPE

Dear Dr. Grope,
You lucky dog! As GLOW's resident physician, you've got the best job in the universe.
When I think about all the fresh, nubile, delectable flesh you get to feel in the line of duty each day, my knees
quiver and I start drooling.
Stanley Robbins
Sitka AK

Dear Stanley,

Yeah, well next time you start drooling, try not to do it over the letter you're writing. You washed away most of your own ink. But I understand your point and agree. I love my job and would happily do it even if I wasn't socking away huge chunks of cash and insurance money. My partner, Dr. Fiel, feels the same way. We plan to continue working with the GLOW girls forever—or until somebody asks us to prove we have medical licenses!

AUNT KITTY

Dear Aunt Kitty,

I've got a complaint. Ever since I first saw Dementia on GLOW, I've been madly in love. I must have written ten letters, but Dementia hasn't answered a single one. I know she's not the most verbal gal around and that's okay. I think we could communicate without words, if you catch my drift. Can you do something to help us get together?

Juan Pendas
Miami FL

Dear Juan,
You might as well get all thoughts of Dementia out of your sick little pea brain right now. She's hardly capable of having a relationship with anybody, and I've got the medical reports to prove it. Dementia is one of my finest wrestlers, but she is totally lethal. In some ways, she's like a child. But at the same time, she's got a mind like a steel trap...and sometimes it snaps. I wouldn't want to be her boyfriend when she decides to give him the ax. Because she has no threshold for pain or fear, once she rounds that bend there's no predicting what dangerous stunt she might pull. Take my advice, Juan. If you value your life, don't rattle Dementia's cage!
